If Kirkpatrick is elected the Court house will no longer belong to the county; it will be known thenceforth as "Kirk's Court-house."

Let every Democrat in the county go to the polls next Tuesday, place his X under the rooster, and save Mr. O'Rear the necessity of keeping his pledges to his Coon constituents.

Senator Blackburn said in his speech here Thursday night that the only monuments the Republican party had left to the country were its Trusts and its Tramps. He should have added its Coon voters.

We have not heard whether Kirk proposes to give his odorous fellow citizens a reserved ticket of admission to his Court-house or not. It would probably be a good thing to do, as some impudent tobacco grower from the country might get in first and secure the "cuddled geman's" chair.

The negroes to whom Ed'ard O'Rear has promised $20 each for their votes would better collect their money early in the morning. They should be certain to get that twenty dollar bill before they vote, for the money, like the offices, won't go round maybe. Twenty dollars will go a long way in helping to pay a coal bill this winter.

Should there be a man in the county who calls himself a Democrat, who is thinking of voting with the Republicans this fall, if he will go next Tuesday, before he casts his vote, to the poll open in the Third ward, or to the one open in the Spencer precinct, and take one look at the kinky-headed crowd of Coons that he will see gathered there, he will not be able, for that day at least, to place his X under the eagle. Bah! One whiff of that odor would be quite sufficient to settle him.

Sow to the Wind and Reap the Whirlwind.

It is said there are some Democrats in the county who are not a little displeased because they did not get all their favorites nominated in the late Primary. Friends, if you will stop for one moment to think, you will see there is scarcely a Democrat in the county who was not disappointed in failing to get one or more of his friends named on the county ticket. We frankly confess that in several instances this is the case with the writer.

Now let us reason together for a moment. Suppose we go back on the ticket, this time, and either vote for Republican or, what is but little better, sulk at home. What then? The party nominees are either defeated or the majorities are very materially cut down. But then the present nominees for county officers, if elected, have only three years to serve, and three years, we find, roll around with wonderful rapidity. Next time we may succeed better in getting our favorites named, and if so, we become the anxious ones to have the ticket elected. But we have set the other fellows who did not get their favorites nominated, a bad example, and following the path we blazed out for them, they refuse to support our favorites. A piece of pure cussedness in not keeping faith with our party now, will, in all probability, cost us and our friend with political aspirations very dear in the future. The saying is none the less true because old that "curses, like chickens, come home to roost."

There is but one way to win party success, and that is along the road of party discipline. We have the utmost respect for the man who registers as an Independent, keeps out of the Primary, and goes to the polls and votes as he pleases. But the man who registers as a Democrat, votes in the Primary as a Democrat, and then because he does not get his choice in that Primary, sulks at home or votes against his party nominees, is not entitled to even his own respect. We go further, and say the man who stays out of his party Primary election or convention, be he Democrat or Republican, has the right to vote as he pleases if the party nominee does not suit him. The man who enters a Primary or Convention, and then because he does not secure his choice, traitorously breaks the tacit pledge of honor given when he entered that Primary or Convention, is simply advertising to the world that he is no true man. Democrats, let us keep faith with our friends in the party ranks, and when we need them, later on, they will keep faith with us.

Ben. Han, of the Gazette, started out in a wonderfully brash manner with an attack upon the Democratic administration of the county affairs. He was compelled to crawl down with, "no one has said to our knowledge that there is anything wrong in the management of the affairs of the county." Since then he has most prudently kept mum. However, Brother Johnnie (Wood) came to his rescue the past week and attacks the Advocate as "the creature and mouth-piece of the 'gang.'" Brother Johnnie does not sign his name to his article, but all the same his ear marks are plainly visible in every line of it. Brother Johnnie charges that the Advocate is trying to induce the "honest Democrats" of the county to vote the ticket straight. Don't be uneasy, Brother Johnnie, these same "honest Democrats" need no inducement to vote their "ticket straight."

This same Gazette, that voices all that is vile and mean in the Republican party; this Gazette that pronounces the infamous Force Bill "a wise and patriotic measure"; this Gazette that claims allegiance to a party that in four years plundered an overflowing national treasury of its surplus of $138,000,000 and left to us the shameful spectacle of only empty vaults; this Gazette that blatantly upholds and unblushingly apologizes for laws, the enactment of which has filled our country with trusts and covered our roads with tramps; this is the organ that says the Advocate is the "mouth-piece of the 'gang.'" The more vigorous the assaults upon us from such a source, the higher the Advocate will stand in the estimation of the "honest Democrats" of this section.

The Gazette calls all Democrats who would vote with their party on any issue or under any circumstances, "so-called Democrats"; their State party organ calls these Democrats, "fool Democrats." The Gazette will find next Tuesday night that there are very few either "so-called Democrats" or "fool Democrats" (if it prefers the phrase), in this county.

Don't Be Deceived, Democrats.

There never was a time when it was more important for Democrats to be true to their party and its principles. The natural feeling of unrest and depression brought on by the financial stress through which we have been and still are passing will, to many misinformed minds, be reason for a change of men in our National Legislature. Many honest but simply misinformed men are holding the Democratic party responsible for the almost beggary that has been brought to their doors. The Democratic party is no more responsible for this state of things than the man in the moon is for the earthquake that the other day visited Japan. All the same the calamity howlers among the McKinleyites are charging it the party in power. They are out and want to get in, and want to get in bad; therefore are reckless of the means by which they gain their end. The Republicans are pledged to two things if they can again gain full control of the legislative and executive departments of the Government, viz: to re-enact the McKinley law and to pass the Force Bill, in order to effectively fasten their high protective tariff on the country beyond the chance of repeal.

As to the McKinley Bill, every thinking Democrat knows the evils of trusts, tramps, and financial disaster that followed in its wake. For the Force Bill, that the Mt. Sterling Gazette thinks such "a wise and patriotic measure," we will let one of their own papers speak. It says: "With the Lodge National Election Law in full force over the South and various Democratic strongholds of the North, we may confidently look for a different state of affairs than now exists. New York City will then return several more Republican Congressmen than now, while more than twenty negro Representatives from the South will render the Republican control of the future Congresses absolutely safe and secure. Heavy taxes should be laid upon the property of the whites to develop and extend the public school system of those States. Separate schools for the two races should be abolished, and the plan of bringing the youth of both colors into close and equal relation in schools and churches given a fair trial as one of the most potent elements to break down the detestable Bourbonism of the South. The State laws against the intermarriage of the races should be repealed, and any discrimination against the blacks in the matter of learning trades and obtaining employment should be criminal offense; while the colored man's right to hold office should be sacredly protected and recognized. A few years of this policy will solve the race problem satisfactorily."

This needs no comment. The picture of what might be expected of this measure is not a tithe of the evils it would bring. A vote for Hopkins or Bosley is a step toward the enactment of such a law. A vote for Kendall or Beckner is a stone placed in an impregnable wall against it.

The O'Rear has promised each one of his black underlings $20 each to keep in line on election day, according to a reported speech of his in the Sentinel-Democrat. Kirk told the same odorous crowd that he proposed to see that the poor white trash went up to the gallery and that the colored gentlemen should occupy seats down stairs in the Court-house, when he became County Clerk. He didn't say, but we suppose that the County Clerk, that isn't to be, will have the chairs cushioned for the benefit of the friend and brother.

What with Eddie's crisp $20 bills and all the "pie" he proposes to throw in for good measure, and Kirk's thoughtful care for their comfort when they shall feel disposed to visit the Court-house, there is a big time ahead for the Coons. It will be better than "40 acres and a mule."

Nobody better than Ed. O'Rear knew what a close inspection of the records of the financial transactions of the county would disclose. No one supposes for a moment he was such a supreme fool as not to have made a close and careful examination of them when they were open to him. If there had been anything upon which he could hang a complaint, Mr. O'Rear would have been only too ready to take advantage of it.

The late Senator Jas. B. Beck once declared that he "would vote against his brother if that brother were opposing a Democratic nominee." Senator Beck was a Democrat without guile or variability. It would be well for the party if every man claiming to be a Democrat was made of similar stuff.

THE PROCTOR & GAMBLE CO. CHICAGO.

How Would You Like it?

Mr. Eddie O'Rear is promising his friends, the negroes, in those nightly seances he is holding with them in Kirk's warehouse and at the Coon school houses, that he will, if he is elected, see that they get a share of the county offices. One of the very few appointments that the County Judge has at his disposal is that of Road Overseer. We do not say that Eddie would keep his promise to the Coons, but he is making these pledges to them never-the-less. How would you like, Mr. Farmer of Montgomery county, to have a greasy, kinky-headed Coon ride up and order you or your son to meet him on a certain day and under his orders work the roads of your neighborhood? You say, "I would kill him first." Hush! None of that, ballots are so much cheaper than bullets. Vote so that Eddie won't have the opportunity to fulfill his pledges to his crap-shooting, chicken-stealing underlings. We do not say that he would, but the man who is none too good to vote for a Coon, is none too good to appoint him to office.

The County Judge's office pays some $1,200, or at the outside $1,500, per year. Mr. O'Rear's friends are boasting that he is himself contributing $5,000 to the campaign fund of the county. They say Kirk has come down handsomely, but do not say his contribution is so heavy as Eddie's. Query:—If the County Judge's office is only worth at the outside $1,500 per year, and the office in the three years will legitimately only pay $4,500, how does Eddie propose to get back his $5,000? He has never been accused of throwing money at the birds. Figure this out for yourselves, tax-payers, and see if there is not a good-sized nigger in that woodpile somewhere.

An Apology.

Some weeks ago, in noticing the nominations of the Republicans for county offices, we took occasion to say of their nominee for Constable from District No. 1: "As for Wallace McMahan, he is an ex-saloon keeper out of a job, looking for anything that promises him the ghost of a chance to find employment. Of course he was glad to secure the nomination. With him it was everything to gain and nothing to lose, anyway." It has just come to our ears that Mr. McMahan has taken great offense at this. We disclaim any intention to misrepresent him. Nor can we see what it is that caused him offense. He is certainly an ex-saloon keeper. He is as certainly out of a job, if we are correctly informed. The only misstatement, then, that we could have made, is that he desires to find an honest and honorable employment. If this is a fact, it is his fault and, a not unreasonable misapprehension on our part, for which we offer an apology as public as the statement we made.

A Democrat who scratches his tick et proves himself not in love with his party principles, and it would be better both for him and the party, that he call himself by the name of the party with which he affiliates. Any man who votes for the Democratic nominees only when it suits him is a mighty poor Democrat.

Ed O'Rear has changed the standing offer of the Republicans to the negro voters from "forty acres and a mule" to "an office and a twenty dollar bill."

The next meeting of the Kentucky Synod of the Northern Presbyterian church will be held at Ludlow.

The Hon. W. C. P. Breckinridge and Senator J. C. S. Blackburn addressed the people of this county last week at the Court-house, the former on Wednesday afternoon and the latter Thursday evening.

Mr. Breckinridge presented to the people the tariff question, and left no point until it was made plain to his hearers. The platform of each party was held up to the people and their workings demonstrated so clearly and intelligibly, that no man need make a mistake in selecting the principles which will restore this country to its former prosperous condition. Mr. Breckinridge made a great speech to a large audience.

Senator Blackburn came on Thursday evening, tired and worn from continual work night and day. A large and enthusiastic crowd awaited to welcome the distinguished gentleman. Mr. Blackburn could not make a poor speech even if he tried to do so. He has been in the Senate for years and has seen and boldly denounced the Republican measures and robbery times too numerous to mention. He told of the amount of money there was in the Treasury when the keys were turned over to the Republican Administration, and of its emptiness when that party turned its back to the Democratic control. Recklessness, extravagance and robbery did it, and this is the party who wish to be returned to office and who promise that the same methods will be resorted to. In '92 the people realized the state of affairs and turned the rascals out, and they will not give them another opportunity to pilfer the people's earnings. And yet such men as Hopkins, Bosley, O'Rear, Kirkpatrick, and Wallace McMahan favor these same stealing methods, and ask the people, the good people, the white people, to vote with the negro and help them into office, that they may have a chance to work "their ways that are dark and tricks that are vain."

By the Democratic enactments the Force Bill, that measure which the Gazette in its delight said was "wise and patriotic" because it would perpetuate the Republicans in power and uphold them in their wastefulness, will never be resurrected, the Sherman Silver Bill cancelled from the law books, and a tariff bill passed which is putting the wheels of machinery in motion and is giving employment to thousands of laborers who had been reduced to penury and want. The Democratic party has proven itself equal to the emergency of lifting the burdens from the people, and what is needed is a few more months in which to give this country peace and prosperity. Beckner and Kendall must be sent to Congress by increased Democratic majorities, and this county must show her faith by her works. Every Democrat has a duty to perform; they owe it to themselves, to their families, to their party, and to their country, and we have faith in the people of this county that they will uphold their former record and from Constable to Congressman their candidates will have overwhelming majorities.

Ex-Speaker Reed does not seem to deny the accuracy of the report of what he said at Ann Arbor. He denies that he authorized the publication by allowing himself to be interviewed. When Mr. Reed really wishes to disavow anything he knows how to do it in very elegant and emphatic English. His Michigan conversation runs smoothly parallel with his New York oration. The purport of all is: "No more McKinleyism for Thomas Brackett Reed."—Bangor Commercial.
